

Norwich University College of the Arts

Norwich University College of the Arts has an excellent record of engagement with local and regional businesses and community organisations. From 'live' projects - such as web site design, corporate identity development or animated films, to fine art commissions, consultancy work and an Art for Hire service, the University College offers a wide range of creative skills and expertise. The Lord Stafford Awards provide Higher Education Institutes with an opportunity for their innovative collaborations and partnerships to achieve a higher profile and for the wider community to acknowledge and reward the skills and achievements of their staff and students.