

University of East Anglia (UEA)

The University of East Anglia (UEA) is committed to creating sustainable collaborative relationships with local, national and international organisations. Private and public sector organisations can work with the University's academic and research community through collaborative research projects, student placements, the licensing of UEA inventions and technologies for commercial use and the engagement of staff as expert consultants, advisers or trainers.