

University of Essex

The University of Essex has a worldwide reputation for the excellence of its research and teaching. It has an expanding role in working in partnership with businesses to improve their competitiveness, profitability and success. Its proven expertise in a wide range of areas can be accessed by organisations looking for innovative approaches to the challenges they face. Our Research and Enterprise Office helps build mutually beneficial partnerships between academics and business and provide access to state-of-the-art facilities. We work with a range of organisations, from small to medium enterprises to global multinationals to help identify the appropriate expertise they require.